CURATING AN IMAGE

Solo Exhibition By Julie Gilroy

CURATING AN IMAGE

Arranging fragments into desirable compositions to steer and guide the observer. Moulding our image to appear effortlessly beautiful, happier, sleeker, camouflaging the chaos. But we must embrace the un-curated fragments, the messy backgrounds which make us unique and interesting. When we lay ourselves bare we find strength and beauty.

Navigating the labyrinth of content and imagery, do we choose to echo and mould ourselves on the best curations? Are we avoiding our true selves or evolving and enhancing what we can become?

Are we staying true to ourselves or simply curating an image?
